For the Research Methodology Course:

3. Department of English and Foreign Languages will incorporate a separate course on Research Methodology in place of the existing Research Methodology course which is common across all disciplines. (Annexure 1.2)

PhD in Department of Political Science:

Discipline Specific Courses for PhD course work are presented and accepted without any modification by the board members.

PhD in Department of Psychology:

In Paper I 'Advanced Cognitive Psychology', experts suggested to remove the word 'Advanced' as basic understanding of psychology is to be taught taking into consideration that all scholars may not be coming from Psychology background. They suggested including 'Learning' before discussing 'Memory and Perception'. 'Sensory Processes' is also required as to be included in the course content.

In Paper II also experts suggested to remove the term "Advanced" from the course "Advanced Social Psychology" and in all the courses, more references to be given as it is inadequate.

Resolution: BOS 2023/02/02: After the discussion, the Board of Studies resolved to incorporate the proposed changes in the PhD Coursework Syllabi of various departments under the school along with a slight modification in the existing Research Methodology course which is common across all discipline except for the Department of English and Foreign Languages.
